Publishing experts as technical consultants: “Finally being an influencer for publishing processes!”

The knk group currently employs the majority of its staff in Europe and North America and is a TOP employer in the SME sector, and a Microsoft Gold Partner with gold certifications.

As an expert in publishing, knk serves the major book, magazine and specialist publishers in Europe, North America and Asia. knk offers the world’s only Microsoft-certified publishing software for this market.

knk’s mission:

“We want [as a software house, IT and process consultancy] to do our part for press freedom in the democratic world and help publishers to remain competitive and profitable in the digital change and thus independent and autonomous”.

What is exciting about the job

- Communicate with software, tools and processes: Conducting training and workshops for our customers
- Recognize customer needs: Setting up and parameterizing Microsoft Dynamics 365 / knkPublishing for our customers
- Specifying customer requirements: Interfaces and migration in cooperation with software development
- Supporting decisions: Advising the customer in the decision-making process and use of Microsoft Dynamics 365 / knkPublishing
- Advancing implementation: in exchange with the customer, project management and software development
- Finding solutions with customers: Specialist consulting for publishers in the above-mentioned areas
- Providing customers with sustainable access to the software: Creation of documentation and training materials
